

Report by the apprentices:

We decided to do our training as industrial clerks because here we have the chance to get an in-depth look at a wide variety of different business areas. This enables us to get to know different occupations we may want to take up after our training.

We wanted to work for a global, future-oriented company. And this is just the opportunity Schlemmer offers its trainees.

Tasks and challenges

In the respective departments, we had various tasks to perform, depending on the area. We were allowed to do these tasks on our own and take responsibility for our work.

From writing up a proposal to booking invoices up to creative tasks in our marketing department, nothing was missing.

In each department, moreover, we also had different target groups to deal with, and often with suppliers or customers, as well.

Thanks to the many different kinds of work, we were repeatedly entrusted with new and different tasks or challenges, and this is just what makes this qualified occupation so interesting and full of variety.
